

SAINT PETER'S CATHOLIC CHURCH

JUNE 7, 2015

*Brothers and sisters:
When Christ came as high priest
Of the good things that have come to be,
Passing through the greater and more perfect tabernacle
Not made by hands, that is, not belonging to his creations,
He entered once for all into the sanctuary,
Not with the blood of goats and calves
But with his own blood, thus obtaining eternal redemption.*

~ Hebrews 9:11-13

The Solemnity of Corpus Christi

I have wonderful memories of this feast from my childhood. At my home parish in Marblehead, we always had a Eucharistic procession on Corpus Christi around the block of the church. I remember looking forward to that experience, even though I'm not quite sure I understood what it meant.

Many of you might remember Eucharistic processions from your youth. They are a beautiful way of professing our faith in the real presence of Jesus in the Eucharist. It is a statement of faith that we believe the Eucharist to be the "source and summit" of our faith and that we want to share that with the world.

For nothing could be more central to the Catholic ethos than the Eucharist. The Eucharist forms our whole sense of the world as Catholics because it is a reminder every week (or every day if you like) that God is "Emmanuel" – God with us. He never leaves us and the Eucharist remains the constant pledge of that promise.

The Eucharist also cultivates within us growth in faith, hope, love, and unity. Faith because it reminds us that the greatest things in the world cannot be totally seen by the visible eye. Hope because the union with God brought about by the Eucharist points us to the ultimate union of heaven. Love because it teaches us how far God goes in sacrificing himself for us. Unity because all different peoples throughout the world eat of the one bread of life.

Jesus gives himself to us in the Eucharist so that we might give ourselves to others in return. The name of today's solemnity comes from the Latin "corpus" meaning "body." We speak of the "corporal works of mercy" to refer to caring for others in their bodily needs. We also speak of a "corpse," meaning a dead, inanimate body. On this feast, we might reflect on whether our life is characterized more by the corporal works of mercy or more by the inactivity and sterility of a corpse. Let's pray that the Eucharist would animate our hearts and bodies with love of him and love of others.

Let us grow together in Christ,

Fr. Jeremy

THANKSGIVING

The word “thanksgiving” most often calls to our mind the holiday in November. But as early as the middle of the second century Justin Martyr referred to the blessed bread and wine of the Lord’s Supper as “food we call ‘thanksgiving’ ” (in Greek eucharistia). The Thanksgiving we celebrate in the autumn is at times marked by a sort of proud societal self congratulation and the consumption of food until we sink into an inert stupor. The “thanksgiving” that we call our Eucharist is just the opposite: we are led to it by an acknowledgment of our own failings; we remember our humble place in the scheme of things by giving praise to God alone.

While the food of Christ’s body and blood fills our spiritual hungers, it also creates in us a greater hunger. We are not sent to our spiritual sofas to let the Lord’s Supper settle; we are sent to be living signs of that thanksgiving for the world by looking out for the poor and powerless, feeding the hungry, caring for the sick, speaking out against the self righteous. In short, the hunger created by our doing in remembrance of Christ must lead us to living in remembrance of him.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

It has been said that the Church breathes with two lungs, East and West. Some of our family treasures are in the East, and it is interesting to consider how liturgical families developed around differing customs. Centuries before Christ, after the young girl was given to her husband by her father, the spouses were crowned. Christians retained that custom, keeping the wedding in the home, and sometimes inviting a visiting priest or bishop to put the crowns on their heads. By the fourth century, the crowns were seen not as royal crowns, but as the crowns of victory worn by martyrs. The crowns have nothing to do with being “king and queen for a day,” but rather speak of the sacrifice of love poured out fully. There are no vows exchanged at all, but the crowning is followed by a joyful dance by the priest and couple around the Gospel book. Unlike Roman law, which saw the wedding rites as optional, Eastern practice did not recognize a marriage that had not been blessed.

TODAY'S READINGS

First Reading — This is the blood of the covenant that the Lord has made with you (Exodus 24:3-8).

Psalms — I will take the cup of salvation, and call on the name of the Lord (Psalm 116).

Second Reading — Christ is the mediator of a new covenant (Hebrews 9:11-15).

Gospel — This is my body. This is my blood (Mark 14:12-16, 22-26).

The Bible is all around us. People hear Scripture readings in church. We have Good Samaritan (Luke 10) laws, welcome home the Prodigal Son (Luke 15), and look for the Promised Land (Exodus 3, Hebrews 11). Some biblical passages have become popular maxims, such as "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you (Matthew 7:12)," "Thou shalt not steal (Exodus 20:15), and "love thy neighbor" (Matthew 22:39). Today's Catholic is called to take an intelligent, spiritual approach to the bible. To learn more on how to be more a more fruitful Scripture reader, visit the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops website (www.usccb.org) and enter "Understanding The Bible" by Mary Elizabeth Sperry in the search box. Excellent tips for reading the bible are found there.

A Family Perspective: One gets the impression there was always a lot of sharing, discussion and learning during the many meals Jesus and the disciples ate together. How does this compare to the meals in your home? Today's Gospel challenges us to make our meals more than physical functions and more a time for sharing. ~ Bud Ozar
