Today, I'd like to share a column that I wrote back in 2009. Enjoy!

Shakespeare, in the words of Juliet, asked, "What's in a name? That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet." He meant, of course, that names don't always tell the story – that Romeo, despite his family name, was just as good as any of Juliet's family and the object of her ardent devotion. Today's Gospel reading is a good example of that idea.

St. Mark tells us that Jesus encounters a blind man named "Bartimaeus...the son of Timaeus." It is interesting that this account is the only one in the Synoptic Gospels where a person healed by Jesus is mentioned by name. Also interesting is that Mark's story gives the blind man's name twice – once in Aramaic and once in Greek. Why do you suppose Mark would put such an emphasis on the name of the blind man? What point is he trying to make?

In many of the world's cultures, including the Jewish culture of Jesus' time, the name of a person gives insight into the character of the person. For example, my given name is William. In its earliest form, William meant strong-willed or firmly resolved. It has also come to mean hard-headed, though I don't know how anyone could possibly apply that to me!

Similarly, Bartimaeus' name holds meaning about him. In Jesus' day Jewish religious belief was that blindness was a punishment from God for some sin or impurity (compare this to the story in John's Gospel about the healing of the man born blind – see John 9.) The name Bartimaeus (bar = son of : tame' = defilement) means "son of defilement." Bartimaeus' blindness was thought to be the result of his or his parents' sin.

Biblical scholars also suggest a second meaning in the name. In Greek the name might be understood as "son of honor" (timē). Is Mark trying to get his readers to look past the external aspects suggested by Bartimaeus' name and see the inner, God-given worth of the man?

Think about it. Blind beggars lived difficult and impoverished lives in those days, though it's not so different now either. By restoring sight to the blind man, Jesus was doing more than curing physical blindness. He was pointing to the essential dignity each of us shares as children of God. He was giving Bartimaeus the means to stand up and live life as he was meant to do - to become the person God meant him to be.

There's another point to this Gospel story, too. What happens when we ourselves are healed of our blindness? Whether it is physical or spiritual doesn't matter. Do we respond in faith when Jesus gives us the power to live our lives as we were meant to? Or do we continue to live as blind beggars sitting in misery on the side of the road? In baptism and the life of faith, Jesus opens our eyes so we may live life to the full – with all the dignity and energy of true children of God. Now what are we going to do about that?

*PARISH AUTHOR NEW BOOKS IN THE GIFT SHOP

Dr. Jeffrey Tiel, a St. Peter's parishioner and professor at Ashland University, has published three books that are now available in our bookstore. Previews will be featured of these books in the next few bulletins, starting first with The Philosophy of Human Nature:

The Philosophy of Human Nature

Why does true happiness often elude us? Aristotle suggested that meaning in our lives is like a target, our choices and goals the arrows. If we don't know what and where that target is, we'll never hit it. Happiness cannot be anything we want it to be, since, if it were, we'd already all be happy; the secret of happiness would simply be to set minimal goals. But that doesn't work, does it? Happiness is the best possible human state. That's why we want it so badly. So, it can't be just anything. Nor is it likely to be easy.

Human happiness is unlike rabbit happiness or vampire happiness. Happiness varies according to the kinds of creatures we are. So, to understand human happiness, we must seek out human nature. That's what this book does. It offers you the opportunity to join Socrates and the other philosophers on the greatest quest ever: understanding who we are and what will truly satisfy us.

October is Vocations Awareness Month. The Traveling Cross Program provides opportunity for parish families to pray for religious vocations, particularly for an increase in Priests.

A volunteer family will receive the cross at each Mass to take home with them for daily prayer during their assigned week. Prayers will be provided or you may use your own. The participating families will return the traveling cross the following week and hand it off to another family. For more information, please call Teresa Baker (419-756-2699) or Cathy Forster (419-524-3426). All families (including singles) are encouraged to participate in this worthwhile project.

TRUE BLINDNESS

Bartimaeus caused a stir. Normally he sat by the side of the road being a “good blind beggar.” But one day Jesus passed nearby. Bartimaeus jumped up and called out to Jesus. We can imagine him turning toward the direction of the commotion and noise. Bartimaeus probably had his arms outstretched as he shouted out to the son of David.

The people who knew him were embarrassed by his outburst. They tried to hush him up and get him to sit back down by the roadside. Their actions spoke volumes: “Bartimaeus, you’re not fit for Jesus.” But it was okay for them and other “sighted” people to follow Jesus. In today’s readings, we learn that true blindness is not a condition of our eyes but of our hearts.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

In the tangled but fascinating history of penance in the Church, the Irish “tariff” system helped us survive the collapse of the old system of public canonical penance and prepared the way for a new system that emerged in the twelfth century. The old form was unrepeatable, public, dealt with serious community matters, and regulated by the bishops as chief reconcilers. The new form had a more intimate setting of penitent and confessor, was extremely repeatable, and applied to everyone. The old canonical form was closed to children, who were hardly capable of the very grown-up sins listed, or their demanding remedies. The old form was likewise closed to clerics, who were protected in a sense by the very nature of the discipline.

In the new Irish form the penitent directly named sins, or answered direct questions by the priest. Sometimes, the penitent would recite a long formula accusing him- or herself in a general way of all sorts of sins, even from the distant past. Next, priest and penitent together would lie prostrate before the altar and recite several of the psalms with penitential themes. Finally, the priest would pronounce a judgment, deciding what form and duration the penance should take, normally insisting that the person return for reconciliation once the penances were completed.

Junior Retreat
at Resurrection Parish

St. Peter's High School assists students as they grow into mature and responsible Christians with each class participating in an annual day of retreat designed to strengthen a Christian school-community atmosphere.

The Senior class will attend a 4 day / 3 night "Kairos" retreat in Carey, Ohio beginning October 28th. The aim of a Kairos retreat is to provide participants the chance to contemplate God's role in their lives. "Kairos" is Greek for "the opportune time" to indicate a sense of "the Lord's time."

Last week, Sophomores and Juniors each had a day of retreat on the grounds of Resurrection Parish. Their retreat was organized by the NET Ministries. NET Ministries challenges young Catholics to love Christ and embrace the life of the Church.

The Freshman class enjoyed a retreat back on October 2nd at Camp Nuhop. The Freshman retreat also focuses on team building and getting to know classmates better in hopes of setting a positive tone of love and acceptance of one another for their entire high school career and beyond.

A FAMILY PERSPECTIVE: When Jesus asked the blind man "What do you want from me?" he asked for sight. If Jesus asked you the same question, what would you say? That, then, is your prayer. ~ By Bud Ozar
